

Q&A: Were/are you Tasmania' s first/only online Pastor? Statistically do you know the Australian numbers for these?

I'm an online pastor?

Depends what you mean about "online" – there are plenty who are socially networked (and plenty who were before my time).

If you mean Tasmanian pastors that blog: I was probably pretty early in the piece but I'm sure not the first. And there's quite a few now. Just some that I know of (sorry if I've got things wrong or missing).

Bp. John Harrower: <http://imaginarydiocese.org/bishopjohn/>

Luke Isham: <http://post-apocalyptictheology.blogspot.com/>

Joshua Skeat: <http://skeatnet.net/>

Mikey Lynch:

<http://www.thegenevapush.com/christian-reflections/>

Chris Bowditch (formerly Tasmanian):

<http://www.youthministryandme.com/>

Staff at Wellspring Church (hardly used though):

<http://wellspring.org.au/blog/>

Alan Reader: <http://www.readeral.com/blog/>

Alistair Bain: <http://paradoxspeak.blogspot.com/>

Online/offline is getting to be a false dichotomy. I am a pastor. I bring that to my interactions with people – and that happens online, IRL and in a fuzzy overlap between the two.

Originally: <http://www.formspring.me/briggswill/q/853282008>