

Minecraft IRL

In recent months some of my children and I have discovered minecraft. We have set up a home server and welcome friends etc. to connect and join us in the virtual land.

Someone sent me the following amusement, which I will not be taking up, but I like the idea. From engadget a report of a 3D-printing service to turn your minecraft maps into real life objects!

